Washington, D.C. – Gordon Thomas Honeywell Governmental Affairs (GTH-GA) announced today that Travis Lumpkin has joined the firm as a Government Affairs Executive.

Travis will expand the federal affairs group by joining Dale Learn, former U.S. Representative Dave Reichert, Lisa Hurst and Paul Hoover. Travis will focus on providing strategic federal advocacy, government relations and communications consulting services to a broad range of GTH-GA clients.

“Travis’ unique experiences with all aspects of federal legislative and administrative matters will be immensely valuable to our clients during this unprecedented time. We are very fortunate to have such an experienced and accomplished person working with us,” said Dale Learn, Managing Partner for federal affairs.

Travis has spent more than 16 years working on Capitol Hill. This includes serving four years as Chief of Staff to U.S. Senator Maria Cantwell (2015-2019) where he oversaw all legislative, communications and day-to-day operations. Travis also served six years as Senior Economic Advisor to U.S. Senator Patty Murray from 2007-2012. Travis got his start on the Hill in 2003, in the office of U.S. Representative Rick Larsen.

“GTH-GA looks forward to growing our federal office with the addition of Travis Lumpkin,” said Tim Schellberg, GTH-GA’s President. “Travis was an essential team member during his previous tenure with the firm. The firm and our clients greatly benefit from his return,” said Schellberg.
